GLENDALE LIBRARY PRESENTS LIVE MUSIC TO ENRICH THE COMMUNITY

Glendale, Ariz. — For 25 years the Glendale Public Library has put forward a music event series called “Live at the Library.” The upcoming performances are scheduled on the last Thursday of each month starting Sept. 26 from 6:30 to 7:30 p.m., and are free to the public.

The Mill Ave Chamber Players is a professional woodwind quintet creating live classical music for the first performance of the series Sept. 26. They will also give lecture-demonstrations of their instruments such as flutes, oboes, clarinets, bassoons and horns.

The Glendale Community College (GCC) Guitar Ensemble will be playing the second concert in this community experience Oct. 24. Presenting ‘Côté Sud: The Music of Roland Dyens’. The GCC Guitar Ensemble will perform the compositions and arrangements of this French guitar artist under the direction of Chuck Hulihan. The ensemble is internationally recognized as one of the strongest and most active of the community and junior college guitar programs.

The Glendale Library is pleased to offer the community with events like this to provide enrichment and entertainment to all who attend. Funded by the Performing Arts Partnership Grant, the Mill Ave Chamber Players (MACP) is able to bring several performances to the Glendale Public throughout 2013-2014. MACP has partnered with Glendale Community College Guitar Studio, Phoenix Chamber Brass and Chris and Lena Jacome Flamengo Duo to deliver six concerts in this series.

There will be other musical acts performing through out the year during the “Live at the Library” series. The Glendale Public Library is located at 5959 W. Brown St. For additional information, call Ivy Jarvis at 623-930-3573.
